A word from the President

On September 21st, 2017 came into force a free trade agreement between Canada and the European Union: CETA.

Through this strategic alliance, Canada and the European Union are accepting several important challenges while opening up to new opportunities. This new economic dynamic reaching over half a billion people is an important symbol of the actual global economic reality. These two territories with common historical roots and strong values are now called to collaborate more than ever before on business projects that can take place in Canada, in the European Union or anywhere else in the world.

It had therefore become essential to create a business hub in Brussels that could gather all the economic actors of the 27 countries of the European Union along with the ones from Canada.

I invite you to build this business community with me for the most fruitful cooperation between Canada and the European Union.

Hope to meet you soon.

Sam Ayoub

President
